Diabetes Mellitus

Department of Transportation (DOT) regulations regarding diabetes mellitus state that: "a person is physically qualified to drive a commercial motor vehicle (CMV) if that person has no established medical history or clinical diagnosis of diabetes mellitus currently requiring insulin for control."

A CMV driver's medical certification examination identified a diagnosis or evidence of diabetes mellitus. Without appropriate documentation of satisfactory control, your patient will be disqualified from further CMV driving duties. Your assistance in providing required documentation will be greatly appreciated.
